SafeHouse Wilwaukee

The SafeHouse in Milwaukee is a unique, spy-themed restaurant and bar that has been a local secret since 1966. Located behind an unassuming red door in an alleyway near the Milwaukee River, it offers a fun and immersive experience filled with espionage artifacts, spy-themed cocktails, and delicious food.

The SafeHouse was founded by David J. Baldwin, who collected spy memorabilia to decorate the place. Over the years, it has become a popular spot for both locals and tourists, known for its secretive entrance and playful atmosphere. The restaurant has even been featured in movies and on the History Channel as one of the best secret locations to visit in the United States.

If you're ever in Milwaukee, it's definitely worth a visit.
